- Privatization volume slightly higher y-o-y partly as a result of privatization sales in the context of portfolio transactions; excluding this impact the margin for the first nine months 2016 was 38.5%.
- Increased non-core and non-strategic sales largely driven by three larger portfolio transactions with an aggregate volume of ca. 17k units.

VONOVIA

The Portfolio Is on a Positive Trajectory

- > Continuous improvement of portfolio quality and exposure to attractive markets through acquisitions and sales.
- > Increased portfolio size has resulted in lower risk profile.
- Benchmark against independent research confirms that our strategic portfolio is in the right locations and has longterm growth potential.
 - > empirica: Growing Metropolitan Areas ("Schwarmstädte") and
 - > Prognos: "Future Atlas Ranking"² of all 402 German cities and counties

² Please see page 50 for more details.

Portfolio Management

Note: Strategic Portfolio includes privatization assets in strategic locations. The chart does not account for asset quality or micro location; the chart is a zoomed view of the full Total Return Matrix

Broad Geographic Basis for Expected Valuation Uplift VONOVIA

Geographic Breakdown of Expected Valuation Uplift

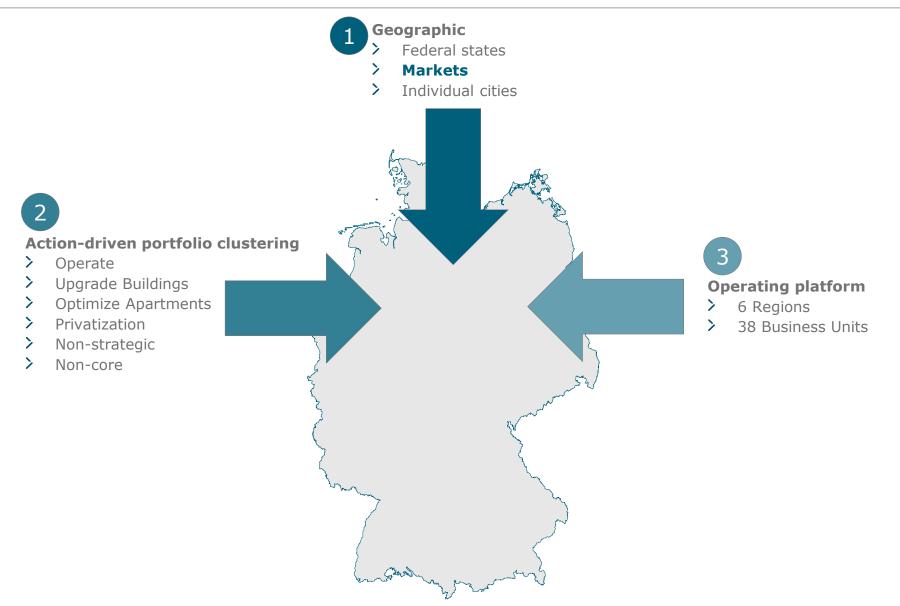

Value driver	Uplift FV (€m)
Performance (rent development, redemption of rent control, etc.)	750 - 950
Investments	450 - 470
Yield compression	2,300 - 2,500
Total	3,500 - 3,900

- Significant increase in Vonovia's rents and development of market rents / new leases.
- > Effect of yield compression higher than in 2015:
 - > High additional uplift in prime locations (e.g. Hamburg, Munich, Stuttgart)
 - Considerable yield compression also in secondary locations (e.g. Dresden, Darmstadt, Heidenheim)

Based on recent forecast of Vonovia calculations. Valuation results are subject to change during the ongoing valuation process.

3 Angles to Look on the Portfolio

Enhanced Transparency on Portfolio Structure

- Given its numerous larger and mid-sized urban areas and its heterogeneous local markets, Germany is quite different from countries such as France or the UK where the capital city tends to overshadow the rest.
- > The relevance of the catchment area and the appeal that a striving urban area has on its vicinity can be better assessed if the focus is shifted away from federal states and the data for individual cities.

EXAMPLE Saxony ≠ Dresden ≠ Chemnitz	City
EXAI ^M Saxony ≠ Dresden ≠ Chemnitz	Berlin 🕿 Potsdam
NRW ≠ Cologne ≠ Gelsenkirchen	Essen ≈ Bochum ≈ Dortmund
Lower Saxony ≠ Hanover ≠ Salzgitter	Munich $lpha$ locations connected via local train

- > We have prepared a supplemental reporting structure for our strategic portfolio¹ that
 - cuts the portfolio into 15 Markets, each of which represents a homogeneous area with similar characteristics and future development potential, geographic proximity, commuter relations, etc.;
 - benchmarks the Markets against external sources (empirica on Growing Metropolitan Areas ("Schwarmstädte") and "Prognos Future Atlas" ranking) to systematically measure their relative attractiveness;
 - > is primarily forward-looking;
 - > supplements our action-driven portfolio clustering and confirms our portfolio management strategy.

¹ Excluding non-core and non-strategic locations and including privatization assets in strategic locations

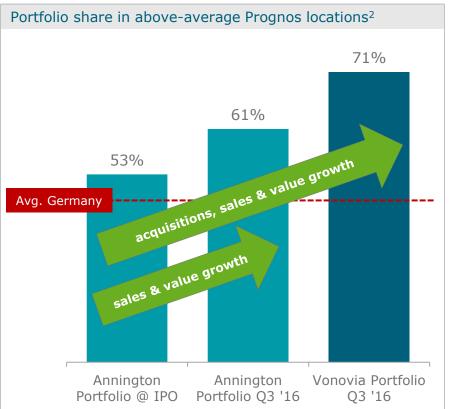

Portfolio Management

Exposure to Attractive Regional Markets has Grown

> The strategy of portfolio investments, disposals of weaker markets and acquisitions in stronger markets has resulted in a substantially more attractive portfolio due to higher-quality assets and locations.

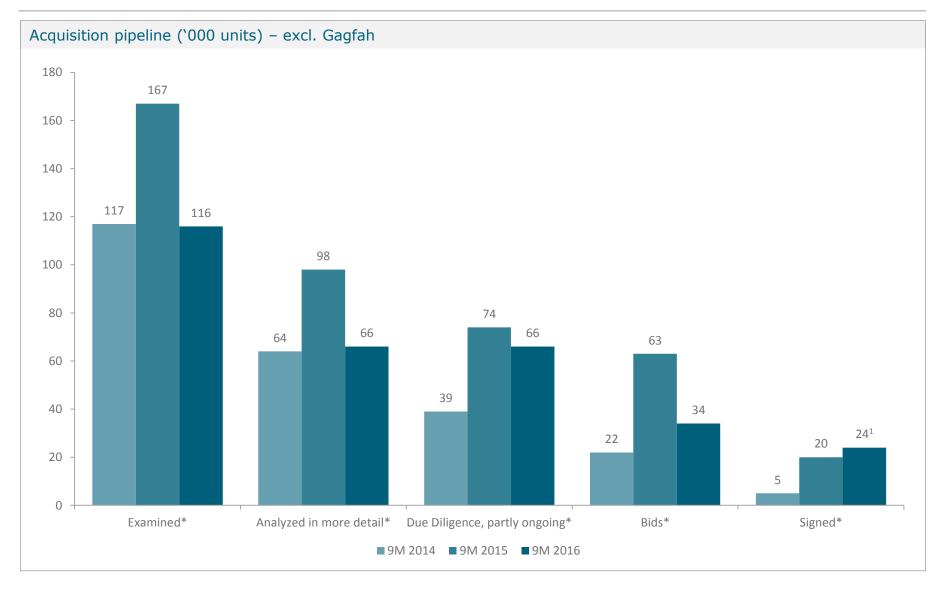

AIVONOVIA

¹ If more than 50% of the fair value of a regional market is in a Schwarmstadt, all of the fair value of that regional market is counted towards the Schwarmstadt; if less than 50% of the fair value of a regional market is in a Schwarmstadt, none of the fair value of that regional market is counted towards the Schwarmstadt ² Above average = ranking 1-4

Portfolio weighting based on fair value; average for Germany based on number of units

Acquisitions – Opportunistic but Disciplined

VONOVIA

¹ Subject to successful tender offer to shareholders of conwert Immobilien SE.

VONOVIA

- While the actual demographic development has not deviated materially from past projections, the regional distribution of the population is seeing a comprehensive shift as especially the younger generation moves into more urban settings. This results in a certain number of growing metropolitan areas ("Schwarmstädte1") and large parts of the country that see a substantial outflow of their population.
- empirica has identified 30 Schwarmstädte across Germany that are the beneficiaries of the regrouping of the German population.
 Comparing 2008 and 2013 demographic data across all 402 cities and counties in Germany shows material population declines in large parts of the country at the expense of a few growing locations to which parts of the population have migrated.
- > Among the reasons for the geographic shift of the population are
 - Germany's declining birth-rate results in lower density of similarly-aged persons, which in turn narrows the options for these age groups as points of interest disappear due to lack of demand.
 - > Increasing economic and social appeal of urban settings vs. rural areas.
- > These trends are enforced by
 - > Increasing unattractiveness of places of origin as more people move out and growing attractiveness of Schwarmstädte as more people move in.
 - Increasing number of households in urban areas as a result of more single households, longer life expectancy etc.
